

ARE WE WISE IN OUR CONCEITS?

There are moments in our lives when we ask ourselves, “What are we doing here?” My wife and I visited a restaurant we like a lot, but only to pick up our order as they had a big event that day. When we got there, a lady wearing leggings was preaching and said that God gave us a license to sin. She is part of one of the biggest denominations in Panama. There were plenty of men approving everything she said. It was not a Sunday nor even a holiday and people skipped work to be there because “God’s word was more important” (as well as having free breakfast and lunch). They recorded the event as they also have a local TV channel. They were in some kind of ecstasy. I wanted to jump in and ask them about passages such as I Timothy 2:11-12. They could have heard me, but would not have believed my words. They also could have recorded me and later manipulated the recording to show things that were not true and therefore, damage not only my name but the name of the one true church. That would not be wise. I wanted them to hear the truth, but they were not going to hear me because they were happy with what they were doing. Sadly, that is what denominations do, give people false hopes, twist the Scriptures to their benefit, get their money, and guide people to eventually hear the saddest words ever said, “Depart from me, ye that work iniquity” (Matthew 7:23). They are wise in their own conceits, and they will be accountable for that on that big day, but, what about us? Are we doing what God expects us to do? Or, are we also wise in our own conceits?

Christians have the most important task in this world, to go and preach the Gospel to every creature (Mark 16:15). Once we obey Christ, we are committed to Him, and we must do our work. There are people out there who want to learn the truth of God. Many of them send us emails constantly asking how they can study His word. One of them wrote,

“Greetings, I am a Christian who wants to know more and better about the truth of God. I am very happy for the Bible School.”

We are thankful to God for the opportunity of doing this work, and the blessing of serving Him together with you. The course on Galatians is now available, and we will launch the ones on Philippians and Colossians soon. Lord willing, we will be at Memphis School of Preaching for their lectures and will be looking forward to seeing many of you there. Would you like to know more about this work of the Lord? Please reach out to us. This work is possible because of faithful brethren like you, who seek to please God, having the same mind one toward another, and not wise in our own conceits (Romans 12:16). Let us ask Him for wisdom (James 1:5). If you have not helped us to do this work of the Lord yet, but would like to, please let us know. We will be more than glad to talk to you about being fellow servants.

May God bless you and your family richly today and always!

To Him be the glory!
